!! A NEW ENTERPRISE !!

Long experience has satisfied us of the necessity in Decatur for AN EXCLUSIVELY PAINT AND ARTIST'S STORE, Stock being Selected and Handled by Practical Workmen.

A Profitable Contract.

New York Tribune.

The contract between Shook & Collier, of the Union Square Theatre, and McKee Rankin as their "leading man," replaces Charles Thorne, calls for about forty-two weeks, or about $30,000.00.

This is a very good offer, and I exulted but perfectly natural in the discussion of the fares which I had to pay and expensively worn my to the same verdict with which we are all familiar.

With the exception of the first few days of his stay in and about the bar-room there were probably 200 other visitors, of whom not more than ten sought to recognize him. At times he was surrounded by fine-looking fellows, who looked at him as though he was an insect as the pictures on the wall and as ready to be staved at the statues on the pedestals. This, by the way, is a peculiar tendency of human nature in this part of the world. When Mrs. Langtry appears upon the streets not only rude men but others who appear to be gentlemen, and women by the scores follow her, walk closely by her side, precede her to face and seat her at shows, were a pair of hounds or a hunting party who might be mentioned, a habit which, whether peculiar to New York or not, certainly finds its normal development on our streets, in our hotels and in our public places. Mr. Ingersoll tells me that he has come with his family to bathe in the ocean and rest in the quiet of Long beach. He takes no stock in any more star court trials, and is naturally exulted but perfectly natural in the discussion of the fares which I had to pay and expensively worn my to the same verdict with which we are all familiar.

A. D. STONE, President.

MARRYING TITLES.

The Fate of American Heiresses Who

Marry Foreign Lords.

W. A. Crofton.

I felt free to mention names, I could tell who to write to about American girls who married English noblemen. In almost every instance it proves fatal to the bride's happiness. It isn't long since Lord Flynglass married the heiress of an American Crossus. There was a tremendous time about it. She was envied by all her marriageable cronies, and old Crossus was congratulated on the fine alliance. He grimed with self-complacency and handed over $1,000,000 to his Lordship Flynglass on the spot. Flynglass took the wife and money and brought them to England, where he introduced her to a few acquaintances and leaves her to shift for herself while he travels with relays of fast horses and mistresses, races and hunts, gambles and lives a wild life on the money he has won. His wife, the bright, hopeful, ambitious American girl, five or six years ago an American girl, whose name was on all the marriage lists, married a rich Englishman, who had the entire of society in England. She has slept in a social cocoon ever since, hardly wishing herself home, not seeing for months sometimes the husband who loves to follow the hounds. An American gentleman living here, whose name would be recognized by the reader, if I was liberty to mention it, said to me yesterday:

"I have been approached within a month by a number of girls, who may be duchesses or ladies, but whose fortune has become great, inspired by his disposition. He has fixed his eye on an American girl, whom he has never seen. She is comparatively uneducated, not very bright, and fearfully plain. Her nose is small and watery. Her father is an Irishman; but he is worth at least $30,000,000. This young lord wants me to bring about a match between himself and this girl. I'd see him hanged first; for I know what a sacrifice of honor it would be."

One other case: There is a lady now in high society in America, her native land, who is a widow, and her husband is a duchess-in-law. She is beautiful, accomplished, interesting, and she might have made a good match in New York. But she wanted a lord, and she got him. He, alas, inherited gambling from his mother, the duchess, and he gambles away all he can get. He is dissolute and unscrupulous; he is a gambler, and he is a scoundrel. To the bright, the ambitious, the lively, the good, he is a bane. He is the bane of this city, for a lord not to get drunk; when sober noblemen were caught and violently held by their followers, and brandy poured down their throats, and strong men were hired before the explicit purpose of carrying their helpless masters home. All is changed. At present it is considered disgraceful for an English lord to be intoxicated, and to be often drunk is a social ban against him.

Ingersoll's Ways.

New York Letter.

In common with Beecher, Webster, Ben Butler, Garfield and other hoary framed men accustomed to deal with public audiences, Mr. Ingersoll has a not entirely pleasant habit of apparently addressing his utterances, not alone to the individual with whom he is conversing, but to the surrounding spectators, who are evidently interested in what he is saying, but who are not privy to his private conversation. Still Ingersoll's talk is bright and breezy, tinged with self-reliance, self-esteem and a trifle of self-conceit. He is an inveterate smoker, but has the habit of allowing his flame to die out after which he finds the, to me, utterly non-understandable enjoyment of a second, third and sometimes fourth and fifth relighting.

Perhaps, after all, his strongest weapon is that of sarcasm, and no one can look at the ugly twits which he directs his remarks to without perceiving that he means a great deal.

Thomas' methods of reproof naturally vary with the subject and the object to which they are directed. A mistake that is a mistake, such as the best regulated families are not slow to exempt from, he will treat as lightly as his mother does an erring child, but if the error is one of willfulness, or stupidity, or laziness—and Thomas is not an idle bore—he reproaches it severely. Sometimes the treatment is harsh, as was the case with a color-bred colt whom he imported from Europe at a great cost. One morning this performer was left at rehearsal and was mildly reproved therefor. The next morning he was again late. As soon as he came Thomas looked at him with a face of steel.

"You can go, sir," he said grimly. "I have no further use for you. You had your warning yesterday."

FRIDAY EVENING, JULY 20, 1883.

H. H. HAMMER, J. H. MORSE,

HAMSHIRE & MOSSER, PROPRIETORS.

DECATUR, ILLINOIS.

Entered at the Post Office at Decatur, Illinois,

as second class mail matter.

GOVERNORS HAMILTON of Illinois, and Rusk of Wisconsin, are at Geneva Lake, in the latter state, where one of the Illinois militia regiments is in camp.

The Chicago Tribune heads one of its leading editorials "A Suggestion to the Bourbons"—just as though that antiquated section of the American people ever accepted the suggestions of any sensible man or journal. "Suggestions" to the Bourbons always wasted.

A CIRCULAR has been prepared by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and laid before the Secretary of the Treasury, relative to Tolu Rock and Rye. The Secretary has it under consideration, and it is believed will issue it. Its purport is an instruction to Collectors of Internal Revenue to regard the compound as a liquor, and collect dealers' license upon it whenever it is sold. The manufacturers will also be required to pay the rectifiers' license.

GEORGIA is one of the few States that remain to be divided into Congressional districts under the new apportionment. The State has ten representatives, an increase of one over the old number. The Legislature now in session will undertake the rearrangement of the districts, and a disposition is shown to have as little geographical gerrymandering about the work as possible. One bill already introduced makes the smallest and the largest district vary in population by only 12,000. According to this measure the colored people would exceed the whites in six of the ten districts. And yet the Bourbons doubtless have the most serene confidence that, even with this arrangement, they can send a solid Congressional delegation to Washington.

A LESS DISPATCH from Washington says that President Arthur is much annoyed by the story sent out to the country that his trip to the Yellowstone Park is to be made at a heavy expense to the public. The truth is that the president goes out as the invited guest of Gen. Sheridan, who makes the trip upon the orders of the war department, which annually sends out an exploring party to the frontier. Gen. Sheridan went over a portion of the same country last year, and would have gone again this year even if the president had not accepted his invitation to be one of the party. The addition of the chief magistrate to the company therefore does not add to the expense of the trip, and even if it did, Mr. Arthur's well known independence of character would prevent him from taking advantage of it. He is as far from being a dead beat as any man well can be.

TEXAS is better provided for the furthering of education than most of the other Southern States, and the State has ever been most generous in that direction. Its permanent school fund consists of 21,000,000 acres of surveyed land and half the vacant domains, which amounts to about 15,000,000 acres. This is to the credit of the fund in the treasury nearly $4,000,000 of state and railroad bonds, and the annual sale of lands is rapidly enlarging the account. The least for which the dedicated funds may be sold is $1.50 an acre, so that Texas has set apart to the cause of education the magnificent sum of $5,000,000. This is not for public school training alone; but the foundation has been laid for a complete university education, a fund of $2,000,000 in lands having been set apart for the purpose. The university will be at Austin. Texas is preparing to give great honor to the South, and will probably incite other states to worthy efforts in the cause of popular education.

ERASTUS BROOKS has seen more than one hundred and twenty journals live and die in the city of New York alone, and believes that over $20,000,000 has been spent on the city newspapers since 1850. The Free Trade Heresy.

New York Dispatch.

We do not believe that our people desire to see either American workmen receive pauper wages or witness the complete stoppage of great and constantly growing American industries. The United States at the present time is in an exceptionally prosperous condition. Would it not be madness to endanger that prosperity by accepting the views of the orators as the policy of the country. Would it not be extreme idiocy to discard a positive good for a fancied improvement?

Value of Character to a Lawyer.

Many unthinking people suppose that a good character is of less importance to a lawyer than to many other men. On this subject Judge Valentine, of the Kansas Supreme Court, in a recent address before the law department of the University of Kansas, remarked: "A lawyer possessing a high character for honesty, integrity and sincerity has almost every respect advantage in almost every respect over a lawyer who does not possess such a high character. He will often win cases where a lawyer of less character would necessarily lose, for in a case pretty evenly balanced the mere weight and force of his high character would turn the scale in his favor. People generally know this, and, therefore, when they think they have a meritorious case will ordinarily seek to employ only lawyers of known integrity, and such as are known to possess the confidence of courts and juries. Such lawyers and only such, can command the best cases and the best fees. Lawyers of less character must generally take such cases and such fees only as they can get."

An old man 93 years of age, a native of Spain, has just returned from this country, where he has been living many years, to his native land. There is nothing remarkable about this, but the prodigious family which accompanied him back was certainly remarkable. It consisted of sixteen daughters, twenty-three sons, thirty-four granddaughters, forty-seven grandsons, thirty-nine great-grandughters, three great-great-grandughters, and seventy-two sons-in-law and daughters-in-law, making in all 270 persons. The old man has been three times married, and his oldest son is 70 years of age. The ship upon which he and his astonishing family colony went to Europe belongs to him, and is commanded by one of his numerous grandsons. Notwithstanding his age the old gentleman enjoys excellent health. Every day he takes two hours' gymnastic exercise, walks for two hours, and directs the education of his great grandchildren. He has never used spirituous liquors in any form, and does not smoke. He will shortly be presented at the Court of Madrid.

SECRETARY TELLER apparently thinks that one head is better than two, provided the one is his own and the other is Attorney General Brewster's. It is announced, however, from the Interior Department that Mr. Teller will settle the case of the Texas Southern Pacific land grant "without referring it to the Attorney General for an opinion." In view of Mr. Brewster's decision with reference to the "bone-head" grant of the New Orleans Pacific Company, Mr. Teller's ultimatum may fairly be construed to indicate that the grant to the Texas Pacific Road will not be turned over in an ex post facto manner to the Southern Pacific Company. The Secretary's head seems to be bowed.HUSBANDS are so stupid! The story of a man who went to town with his wife to do errands and was sorely perplexed at missing something on his return, until he reached home and found that he had forgotten his wife, reminds somebody of a woman in Philadelphia who gave her husband six commissions to execute in New York. He telephoned back that he had executed five and forgot the last. It was an order for an illuminated sentence for a Sunday School room. He was a good deal astonished when he received the reply: "Unto us thus day a child is born—two feet wide and nine feet long."—Harper's Magazine.

THE Committee of Arrangements for the Louisville Exposition has officially advised that President Arthur, Secretary Folger and Lincoln and Postmaster General Graham will leave Washington July 30, in a special car tendered them, to be present at the opening of the Exposition August 1. Another car will be sent to Chicago for General Sheridan and party, who, with the President and Secretary Lincoln, will leave Louisville for Yellowstone Park.

THE eastern end of the Northern Pacific Railroad has reached a point fifteen miles west of Helena, M. T., at the point where the Mullan Tunnel is being constructed, and the work of building a temporary line over the mountain or through the gap is already in progress in order to meet the fine from the west, which has already been extended twenty miles east of Missoula, leaving but about ninety miles yet to be built before the union is formed between the rails from the two sides of the continent. With the present progress of construction it is expected the line will be completed and ready to open by September 1.

Born Tom Thumb and his wife professed to be firm believers in Spiritualism. Mrs. Tom recently said: "I have been investigating the subject of Spiritualism for a number of years past, and I must admit that I am a firm believer. Now, the General over there hasn't given so much attention to this matter, but he is a believer all the same. We have traveled so long and so much that we have been enabled to see some wonderful things, and not the least are the remarkable manifestations of the spirit. Why, I am somewhat of a medium myself. Occasionally when I sing or speak before the public all thoughts of the words I should leave me in an instant, and I find myself overpowered almost with some strange sensation, and my mind is on something above, beyond, until I am unconscious of what I was doing until I am led off the stage."

GENERAL NEWS.

The Effect of the Strike Upon Trade in Chicago.

Iowa Corps—An Immense cattle Drive—Murder Trial in Kansas City—Crimes and Casualties—Political Notes.

CHICAGO, July 20.—The strike of the telegraph operators induced free selling for account of customers who were long and unwilling to hold property while the prospect of quick communication with other markets was so disengaging.

The uncertainty of receiving immediate instructions from customers in case of a further decline brought large blocks of long property held on short margins on the market, and during the early part of the day heavy orders were received from New York to sell short. This induced free offerings by local bears who thought the strike would cause indiscriminate selling. The bears were encouraged to increase their shortings by the improved character of the crop reports, and less favorable cables from European grain markets.

GRAIN MARKETS.—Wheat opened 10c higher, further declined as the market offerings caused a general feeling among timid bears and closed 14c and closed quiet. The inspections showed an increase of forty-five bushels per barrel, and the shipping demand for specie grades was the same. Corn opened weak and lower, and declined 14c and closed 10c lower. Soybeans were higher, and although the price was about 14c lower, the demand was good. Corn opened weak and lower, and declined 14c and closed 10c lower. No. 2 oats opened weak and lower, and closed 14c lower. No. 3 oats met a better shipping demand. The speculative inquiry was fair, the offerings being large and demand small.

It was reported in Decatur last evening that General Grant had dropped dead in New York City yesterday. It was a canard. The General is well and hearty, and at least accounts was smoking a Bohemian.

JAMES T. Jones, druggist, Chester, writes: "Brown's Iron Bitter gives entire satisfaction." 20

Last evening a delightfully pleasant social party was given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Shellabarger, in honor of Miss Clara Shellabarger, of Topeka, Kan., who has been in the city visiting her numerous relatives several weeks. Those present were Misses Lelah Race, Mamie Smith, Ida Priest, Annie Henkle, Irene Thatchier, and Miss Moore, of Carroll, Ill., and Messrs. Leo Race, Sherman McClelland, Chris Hildebrandt, Harry Hayes, Art Race, Will Shellabarger and others. The spacious grounds were brilliantly lighted and a gay time was had inside and out. The amusements included music, parlor games and playing croquet by moonlight. The merry company was served with an abundance of choice refreshments.

A DEAD SHOT.

Feats of Marksmanship by Capt. Stubbs, Major Price and Dr. Lightfoot.

Quite a good-sized party gathered at the fair grounds on yesterday afternoon to witness the fancy shooting, in which Capt. E. E. Stubbs, the man of many medals and champion shot of the world, and Major Gwynne Price, the champion of England, engaged. It was a wonderful exhibition of skill with rifles and pistols. Capt. Stubbs broke 99 out of a possible 100 clay pigeons, 18 yards rise, and Major Price broke 89. The Captain gave an exhibition of skill with a rifle, firing at moving objects, and did not make a miss.

At 9 o'clock in the evening there was a good turnout at the tabernacle when Capt. Stubbs entertained the spectators by performing astonishing feats. He broke balls and vials with a rifle thrown over his shoulder backward, placed on top of his head, between his legs, and in a variety of other positions. The objects were hit while they were in motion. Balls thrown over the Captain's head were broken, the shooter turning quickly and nipping them on the fly. The match between the Captain and Mr. Farns was to break 15 glass balls. The former used a rifle and the latter a shotgun. Farns broke 7 balls and the Captain 15. Dr. Lightfoot, the Indian medicine man, dismissed his big audience early to take in the shoot, and being an expert with the gun himself and Captain Stubbs closed the exhibition with several extra fancy shots. The Doctor is as handy with the gun as he is with the forceps, and was liberally applauded.

To-day Capt. Stubbs, Major Price and Mr. DeLisle left for Peoria where they will give an exhibition. They made friends while in Decatur, and will be warmly welcomed should they pay our city another visit.

THE Christian Girl alleged insanity case is being investigated to-day before Judge Greer, who is holding court in the circuit court room, that the large number of witnesses for and against the accused may have better accommodations. The counsel for Mr. Girl is D. L. Brum. The counsel for the prosecution is L. A. Birmingham. The case was before the court on a former occasion for investigation, but it fell through because of the non-appearance of the chief prosecuting witness, who is a son of Mr. Girl. It is a peculiar case and very uncommon in character. Usually insane investigations are more formalities, but this case is not. Mr. Girl and his friends insist that he is perfectly sane, while the claim is that he is not, for it is alleged that he is continually talking about his family troubles. It is also affirmed that Mr. Girl is dangerous at times and has made threats of a serious nature with reference to members of his family who are afraid of him.

CASE CLOSED.

In the action in Justice Curtis' court last evening against W. H. Pettijohn, charged with battery by Lula Spangler, the defendant was held to bail in the sum of $600, which he gave.

"GUS AND ED."

Opening of the New Tea Store Fronting on the Park.

The special attention of Republican readers is called to the fact that to-morrow (Saturday) morning the handsome new tea and coffee store, south side city park, will be formally opened for business, and all are invited to call whether they wish to make purchases or not. The store is well stocked with the very best teas and coffee, spices, etc., and will be run as an exclusive tea store. "Gus and Ed" are the names of the two young men in charge of the store, which is a branch of the "Bain's Tea and Coffee Company."

Gus Ahrens is the manager, and his brother Ed is his assistant. Gus has been on the road some time opening stores for the Bain's company, and has finally chosen to locate in Decatur permanently.

He is one of those energetic young men determined to succeed, and when his word is given as to the quality of goods in his line, it can be relied upon. Call and inspect the display.
